Wayne Tanswell

An Evening With...

Wayne Tanswell

Friday 24th February, 7pm

Tickets on sale now: £19 per guest for two courses and a talk, questions and answers and a book signing from traditional signwriter, Wayne.

Wayne Tanswell has a rare trade these days; he is a traditional signwriter and has been so since 1980. He's a massively important part of retaining the heritage of traditional pub signage, but also takes commissions for projects as diverse as stock cars, stage settings, film sets, game reserves and more.

Wayne is not solely a signwriter; he has just released his fourth book, is a striking artist in his own right, recently held an exhibition in the Apex Gallery in Bury St. Edmunds, was commissioned to assist an artist with a large scale installation at the Tate Modern, has been interviewed on many local BBC radio stations AND holds workshops and seminars all over the world. You could say he's quite busy...

We first met Wayne here at The Plough some 9 years ago, and always look forward to him visiting; he's warm, funny and hugely charismatic, with wonderful stories about his work and the travels it has taken him on across the world.

This evening will fascinate anyone with an interest in art, culture, marketing, history or travel and indeed anyone who has an eye for aesthetics and likes a giggle!

The full menu for the evening is on our website and at the bar. Pre-order required.
